CRUSHED TO DEATH

Horribly Calamity in Washington City.

Ford's Old Theater Falls to the Ground.

Nearly Five Hundred People in the Building.

BUT FEW OF THEM ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURIES.

A SCORE OR MORE INSTANTLY KILLED.

The Building That Collapsed Was the One in Which Abraham Lincoln Was Assassinated and Was Used by the Government as a Part of the Office of the Surgeon General of the Army—Four Hundred and Seventy-Five Persons Were Employed in the Building.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Ford's old theater, the building in which Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, and used by the government for many years as part of the office of the surgeon general of the army, collapsed Friday morning, shortly after 9:30 o'clock, with a terrible loss in life and injury.

The building stood on Tenth street, northwest, between E and F streets and not far from Pennsylvania avenue. It had been condemned years ago—some claim as many as 15 or 20—and had been repaired, propped up and renovated from year to year.

There were 475 persons mostly government clerks, employed in the building, and nearly all of these were at work when the building fell.

An excavation for an electric light plant was being made in the cellar of the structure—a three-story affair—and according to the best information obtainable, the workmen had dug beneath the foundation supports in the front of the building, weakening them to such an extent that the walls gave way before they could be jacked. This explanation of the cause for the accident is the only one advanced, but it seems somewhat strange in view of the fact that the top floor gave way first.

Men who were in the building say the crash came without warning. Those on the top floor were suddenly precipitated to the floor below, and the weight of falling timbers and furniture carried the second and first floors with it. Fortunately only the forward half of the floors gave way. The outer edges of the floors and the rear part of the structure remained intact. The walls did not fall.

The news that the building had fallen spread with lightning-like rapidity and soon Tenth street and adjacent thoroughfares were crowded with people. Within an hour the news was known all over Washington and hundreds of anxious relatives and friends swarmed to the vicinity of the old theater. Women appealed anxiously to every bystander for information about some particular person, while men camped with tears in their eyes and imploringly besought the policemen to let them through the police lines that they might obtain some knowledge of their friends and relatives.

A general fire alarm was turned in a few minutes after the crash, and then all the ambulances in the city were summoned. As quickly as possible the police and firemen formed a rescue brigade, and ready hands assisted them to take out the killed and wounded.

In less than an hour about 25 people had been taken out, and every few minutes thereafter some still form would be borne on a stretcher through the lines that they might obtain a few moments of rest.

Police Officer Pody, injured after a fall.

LAID TO REST.

Most of the Victims of the Ford Theater Disaster.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Sunday was a Sabbath of funerals in Washington. Most of the victims of the Ford theater disaster were buried or were carried by trains to be sent to their final resting places among friends.

The coroner confirmed the statement that none of the victims were men of property, and that the ones living up to the standard of wealth were all of them very poor.

The doctor said that the authorities were not to blame for the accident.

The coroner's report said that the accident was due to the carelessness of the driver of the car.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

F. M. Clement is the Democratic nominee for the Legislature. He will appreciate your vote and influence.

We are authorized to announce ISAAC LINLEY a candidate for the Legislature, to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky. Election November 1893.

The Legislature is making an effort to adjourn July 4. The effort is feeble, however.

Gen. Dan Carlos Buell will be made Register of the Treasury, says Washington letter.

A six-story building in New York burned Monday, and a number of people perished.

The Louisianians swept down on Frankfort en masse Monday. They were after the capitol.

The Capital removal fight is now on at Frankfort. Three cheers for Louisville and her million.

Mr. Webb Watkins, one of the editors of the Princeton Banner, was married last week to Miss Emma Coleman a beautiful and popular young lady of Princeton. The PRESS extends congratulations.

One branch of the Legislature has passed a dog law, but it is so framed that the responsibility of this great imposition upon the dog will not rest upon solons. Each county can vote upon the question, if it chooses, as to whether it shall tax the male canine 10 cents and the female $1.00.

We announce Mr. Isaac Linley a candidate for the Legislature. He is the Third Party nominee. He is well known throughout the district as an honorable, clever gentleman, and he is highly respected. As a legislator he would be faithful to his trust, and earnest in his efforts.

The present Legislature is not without some virtue, and as all the mean things are known, we make haste to clip the following from the Frankfort Capital:

We have known every member of the General Assembly who has served here since 1871, and no House or Senate, in all those twenty-two years, has been a more moral or sober body than that which has been here for the past eighteen months.

Mrs. Josephine K. Henry, of Versailles, petitions the Legislature "to pass a special act creating the power or authority" to which she may apply and have bestowed upon her the right of citizenship. She also asked to be pardoned of the single crime of which she is guilty, "namely that of being born a woman." Mrs. Henry has been running for office, and raising "cain" generally so long, that people are no longer inclined to believe that she is guilty of the crime to which she aludes.

During the late campaign, Peck, the commissioner, of New York, announced that he had corresponded with the manufacturers, and those employed in the factories in the state of New York touching the increase of wages under the McKinley tariff bill and that the answers were to the effect that wages had been increased since the passage of the law. The correspondence was demanded of Peck, he not only refused to let the documents be seen, but burned them to prevent their falling into the hands of the people, claiming that these communications were his private property. The matter was taken to the court and the supreme court of New York has decided that the documents of a public office are public records, and no one has a right to destroy them.

The speech of our esteemed Third Party friend, Mr. Isaac Linley, at the court house Monday, was, in some particular, a little amusing. He was klids that swim in the political sea; he had been a Democrat, he was now a Third Party man, and his father was a Republican. Therefore he was a trinity—a trine candidate—like the ex-Democrat, like the People's Party man like the son of a Republican. His wonderful love and admiration for the Republican party was truly and tenderly touching, but the old gal was old, deep furrows ploughed her brow; her sunken cheeks no longer responded to the touch of paint and powder. The Democratic party, his constant companion, for many years was inapplicable; for many years he had nestled upon his bosom, poured pangs of love into ears, and gallantly defended her from all foes, but the plighted vows are now broken; like now turns to a younger; she stands in her frills and flounces, and while he would sip the nectar from her lips in private, he shuns from accepting a wreath at her hands and wearing it publicly; but the little miss stamped her foot Monday, and said that he must bear her token of love, accept her seal of commendation and announce publicly that he was her partner in the Legislature ball. She was so young, so frail, so tender; but so vindictive that like yielded, notwithstanding his belief that without the help of the old girls he never would reach the honors that glitter in the Legislature hall in the old capitol at Frankfort. Hence standing before all three charmers Monday, it is no wonder that the tender chords of the heart were touched as thoughts of each whirled through his mind, while the unspoken feelings were there: "How happy could I be with either, were 't other dear charmer away, but, while ye this make me together?" There is no telling what I will say.

It is to be here noted that the Dick Fowler recently broke the record made by the side-wheel steamer, Idlewild, when she steamed from Cairo to Evansville, 100 miles, in 15 hours and 29 minutes, by covering the same distance over the same water in 14 hours and 47 minutes, and she will beat the Royal, too, although that boat is a clipper for speed. We are with the "Dick"—Cave-in-Rock Register.

FIVE KILLED.

The Horrible Crime of a Demented Mother.

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 14.—Mrs. Kate Kereh, living ten miles from here, having lost her reason, poisoned two of her young children, threw two others into a well and then killed herself.

She tried to kill her eight children, but four were saved by the desperate struggle of her fourteen-year-old daughter, Mollie. The family is in good circumstances.

No cause is assigned for the woman's derangement. All five are dead. The husband was away from home at the time. She killed the two smallest, poising their milk with strichnine.

There Will Be No Hanging.

The 23rd inst., as has often been remarked lately, is the day set for the execution of Milligan, the brutal wife murderer. The courts have said the man must hang and the governor has declined to interfere, and Milligan says he wants to be hanged rather than go to the penitentiary and the officials will enforce the court edict, but—and here the news drops a prophetic hint, there will be no execution. Milligan, as all are now concluding, is now, if he has not before, an insane man and not therefore a subject for the halter.

George Green was thrown by a mule last Saturday and very badly hurt, but probably not fatal.

Rev. Albert Wigginton, of Tenn., is visiting relatives here, and attended the church at Bethlehem last Sunday.

Walter Young, formerly of this place, but now traveling for a Cincinnati clothing house, was in town Saturday and Sunday.

Sam Howerton and little daughter Isabel have been visiting relatives in Ohio county for the past two or three weeks.

Bev Vinson lost two barns and about eight thousand pounds of tobacco last week, only partly insured. It was the work of an incendiary, as there was straw scattered from a stack to each barn and the horse he rode was tracked for two or three miles.

Albert Crider, of Crittenden stayed in Kelsey with Bart Duer last Saturday night and put his horse in Mr. J. T. Woolf's stable and the horse got his head through a hole pulled back and broke his neck.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Isaac Linley Accepts the Third Party Nomination for the Legislature.

Last week there appeared in the Press a little notice calling the Third Party Committee together at Marion Monday, June 12. The Committee met according to the call, and the result of the meeting is a candidate in the person of Mr. Isaac Linley, of Livingston, for the Legislature.

The Third Party Committee was called to order Monday at the court house by Dr. J. R. Clark, of Marion, Mr. W. E. Flanary presented resolutions endorsing the Omaha platform, and nominating Isaac Linley for the Legislature. The chairman put the resolutions on their passage, and they were adopted without dissension.

Mr. Linley was introduced by Mr. A. H. Cardin. He said that he accepted the nomination and was proud of it. He endorsed the Third party platform from end to end. He thought the Government ought to loan the people money at a low rate of interest, if the people could give the Government good security; if they could secure it by land mortgages. He was for free and unlimited coinage of silver. He wanted the Government to buy the railroads.

He thought the Democratic party was incapable. He had nothing against the Republican party; some of the brightest pages in the history of the country were made bright by the acts of the Republican party, but the party had outlived its usefulness. He said that he left the Democratic party last fall. Mr. Linly concluded by saying that "if you hear any evil reports about me do not believe them, wait until you see me, none of them are true."

Mr. F. M. Clement followed Mr. Lindley. He said that he was the nominee of the Democratic party; the nomination had come to him fairly. He was a thorough Democrat, his was the Democracy that was expounded by Cleveland, Carlisle and Watterson. This is a free country, every man has a right to belong to any party that pleased him best, that he was a Democrat, he had no fault to find with the man who belonged to another party. He said that only in a general way could he give an idea as to what he would favor as legislation. He was opposed, as a rule to issue bonds of any kind; no State, county or district should issue bond except under extreme circumstances. States and counties should, if possible, transact all business on a cash basis.

He favored, leaving the convict labor to be worked inside the penitentiary walls. He was for a good road law, but knew of no feasible plan for making good roads; we could not afford to pile our roads; we are not able.

Railroad Fair Paid.

We desire to call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Bowling Green Business College and Literary Institute of Bowling Green Ky.

The proprietors of the school offer to pay the railroad fare of all parties who will enter their school. The school is one of the leading institutions in the South, and had a very large enrollment of students the past year. Fifty-two page catalogue free.

The Baptist Sunday school at Marion will meet at the Opera House Sunday. The church is under going repairs and is not in condition for use.

The public is rapidly investing in the new cemetery. Many of the good citizens have already purchased lots. It will be a beautiful burying ground and will always be cared for. Mr. J. B. Kevil is managing the sales for John Lamb.

Wheat harvest on hands in few days. An insect is in some neighborhoods, injuring the crop by cutting the stalks of straw off near the ground. Several crops have been materially injured in that way.

HEARIN WINS.

The Long Drawn Out Fight Ends.

Monday's evening Louisville papers reach Marion Tuesday morning. They came in as usual last Tuesday morning and in a few minutes thereafter it was known that Congressman Stone had cast his vote for a post master at Marion and that the choice of the Congressman was Judge A. M. Hearin.

This settles the long fight over the jinxy plum; and the old will go out, and the new go in, while the world will roll on about as usual.

J. Strother Smith.

Everybody knows plain Jim Smith, when he writes you a letter he signs it "J. S." Of course we all know that he is manager of the Crittenden Springs; he invested his time and money in the famous hostelry this year because he had a large acquaintance, among people who usually go to watering places and if his many warm friends knew that he had charge of Crittenden they would summer with him. Jim was in town Monday, and Jim was mad; he was not only mildly angry, but raving mad, and he was talking about courts, lawyers, damages, juries, and things of that kind. After he had simmered down to about 104 in the shade, he called a lawyer and after retaining the attorney proceeded to explain his case by handing the limb of the law, and invitation to the opening ball at Crittenden. The lawyer read, folded and put it in his pocket, and said: "now for your case, Jim." "Yes, said Jim, "that paper explains it all." The attorney adjusted his glasses, re-read the invitation carefully, and said: "Jim, what do you mean; this nothing but an invitation; that certainly has nothing to do with you," "It hasn't," fairly roared Jim. "No," said the lawyer, "your name is not where mentioned. Ain't I the manager of Crittenden Springs? screamed the client, as he mopped the perspiration from his crowded brow; "didn't I drop everything and come over hear because of my extensive acquaintance, didn't my friends tell me they would come, if I would let them know when I took charge, didn't we have those invitations printed to let them know about it, and now even you don't know my name as printed on it. Look, J. Strother Smith; nobody knows me by that name, not even my mother, or wife, and already some of my friends are writing to Strother Smith, asking the whereabouts of Jim Smith. Of course I want damages, and big damages from Jenkins, who is responsible for it all. I don't part my hair in the middle, I have no soiled pink shirts, and yet this is all heaped upon me. Damages, yes sir, damages, by jings, I will have."

Died.

At the residence of his mother Mrs. Fannie R. Lemon in Crittenden county on the 9th day of June 1893. Richard Lucien Lemon, aged 19 years one month and three days.

Yes, after long and patient suffering, the close attention of his physician, the diligent, anxious and laborious care of his fond mother and the kind attentions and good offices of neighbors and friends, he came to his final end at the setting of the sun last Friday.

To speak well of Dick, requires no partiality on the part of those who knew him. In many respects he was an exception of a boy. To his seniors in years he was respectful and polite, to his juniors he was kind and helpful and with his associates always courteous and pleasant. His good traits of character will be long remembered and praised by the young and the old in the Iron Hill country and wherever else he may have been known. He now sleeps calmly in the Sugar Grove cemetery. "Peace to his ashes and honor to his memory."

His Uncle.

Sheriff James Cooper, of Randall county, Texas, is a fortunate man and while he has plenty of dollars and representatives of dollars, the best part of his fortune cannot be estimated that way. It is a wife and she is a Crittenden county girl. On the 6th at Cayon City, Tex., he and Miss Belle Stewart were united in marriage. Miss Belle went from Marion to Texas several years ago, homesteaded a section of land, and like the brave girl, she is, began to carve out a fortune for herself; she was succeeding admirably when the young and popular officer came along and won her heart and hand.

How They Take It.

Upon the receipt of the news about the result of the post office fight the PRESS sent out a man to interview the vanquished fellow citizens. The first man met with was John Morse. He was rushing round hunting for a valise. "What will be my fortune course? I am going out to establish agencies for Morse's Patent Ribbon Rack" he said, as he pitched the valise at a neighbor who called from across the street: "Is there any mail for me?"

The next late candidate for post office honors, encountered was Herman Koltinsky. The suave little gentleman sported a far-away-night-have-been look, and said, "Well, about as I expected." Just then a customer came in and called for "some dried Herron." Kol made a dive for scale weight and the customer sped around the corner.

About this time R. B. Dorr, the old tried, never shirking Democrat, came around the corner, bearing upon his shoulder a step ladder, and in one hand a hammer while in the other hand he held his upper lip to its accustomed place. He tarried not for a talk, but blinking his off eye, passed on, striking his foot against a rock, he stumbled, and as he fell, he looked back at the inanimate object that caused his collapse and said: "Dad-blame that stone; you are not the first of the name to trip me."

Mr. H. M. Cook could not be found; he was out on his farm, probably following the plow, like Cincinnati of old, waiting to be called to serve his country.

John Bennett was found in the undertaker's establishment, sitting on a coffin box, whistling: "How Tedium and Tasteless the Hours."

Rev. B. E. Martin was not in town; when last seen he was in search of some school trustee who presided over some school district, in which there was no contest for the situation as teacher.

Prof. J. W. Hayes, Completes

Three Chapters of a Story to Be Completed at Circuit Court.

CHAPTER I.

Several months ago, Prof. (?) J. W. Hayes, col., a comet of the first magnitude, struck the colored world at Marion.

He was in a blaze of glory. A plug hat, a long-tail coat, the strut of a peacock, and a well lubricated tongue were his credentials. He taught school.

CHAPTER II.

Prof. Hayes, the luminary suddenly disappears from the skies. A pair of gold spectacles, a watch chain and a costly book belonging to Jos. Young Robt. Sutcliffe disappear about this time. The grand jury says Hayes is responsible for the departure of the articles, and that he carried a pistol concealed.

CHAPTER III.

Sunday June 11, an officer from Summerset, Ky., knocks upon the jail door at Marion; the door is open, Hayes walks in, and will remain until the June term of court, when the remaining chapter of the story will be published.

County Court Orders.

The following road overseers were appointed:

Chas Clement, Fred Brown, C. E. Stallions, Jno Loftis, Fred Clement, Jno Holloman.

H. B. Williams granted change in road.

J. S. Smith was granted licenses to keep tavern at Crittenden Springs with the privilege of retailing spirituals vices and malt liquors.</

Obituary.

Lawson R. Hughes was born in Crittenden county, Ky., Sept. 8, 1837 and was married to Miss Nannie E. Simpson, Oct. 20, 1869. About one year after his marriage he professed religion and united with the Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Mt. Zion, of which he was a faithful member till his death. For the last fifteen years brother Hughes was an invalid, and though able to get up more or less, he was never regarded as a well man. For several months previous to his death, he was a patient sufferer. On the 15th, of March, 1893, at the old homestead, where he was born, raised, and had lived, he breathed his last in the arms of a merciful Saviour. "My sky is clear," was the response in answer to a question as to his hopes of heaven. "Yes," said he, "I hope that I shall have home in heaven." When his death was known throughout the community, his loss was keenly felt, particularly among the needy and poor. A sad vacancy is noticed and felt at old Mt. Zion, which he loved so much and where he worshipped so long. A large concourse of people attended his funeral. In the old Mt. Zion cemetery, his body reposes till the resurrection of the just. Peace to his ashes.

"A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled, A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled. God in his wisdom has recalled The boon his love has given; And though the body slumbers here, The soul is safe in heaven." —E. M. GIBBONS.

Died on the morning of the thirteenth of December 1892, little Hugh infant son of J. N. and Ida M. Roberts, aged four months and six days. We administered many remedies, we winged our prayers and tears together as we watched by his little cradle, but in vain, he faded like a gentle flower before our weeping eyes. His little body gave a way beneath the mortal stroke of disease and his spirit returned to God who gave it. And we are left here to wade through the trials and bereavements of earth, looking forward to the time when we will go home to that sweet baba. But we are not left to ourselves, this is our birth, that the same loving hand that took our darling from our embrace is still leading and guiding us, bringing us each day nearer home and everlasting happiness.

Yes, we are coming baby coming When the storms of life are o'er, We will meet thee, fondly greet thee, Where pain and parting comes no more. —A FRIEND.

Thomas, the little son of Henry L. and Sarah E. Bolt, was born Oct. 13, 1893, and died of pneumonia, March 1, 1893. He was a bright and cheerful little fellow giving much attention to books and always lead his class at school, he attended Sunday school, and but few of his age had such knowledge of the Bible.

To the bereaved mother we say, "Weep not for Tommie he is resting in the Paradise of God, where there is no night, neither sorrow, or pain, for the hand of God has wiped all tears from their eyes and they shall reign for ever," our Saviour says, "suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Tommie's home the home is the house of many mansions and his companions are angels. The chilly winds of death Jordan are passed and he stands among the blood-bathed throng on the other side, having joined the song of redemption he sings praises to those who redeemed him; then be faithful until death, for our God is a son, and a child. —W. F. R.

Little Gertrude, daughter of Grant and Lola Davidson was born December the 6th, 1891, and on May 25th, 1893, God saw fit to close her mild blue eyes, never to open them again on earth, and now she is in the realm of the blest, where there is no more pain. Dear parents weep not for little Gertrude but weep submissively and say thy will be done O Lord not ours, and when the last roll is called you will meet your angel child, where there is no parting. Kiss no fare-well words. Oh, yes, but a little while and you will be with little Gertrude, basking in the sunlight of eternal glory. I imagine I can see her bright form and hear her gentle voice saying, as she gazes out over the walls of Heaven, mama, papa and little brother come up higher and enjoy this eternal rest. Precious baby we have laid thee, I, the peaceful grave embrace. But thy memory shall be cherished. Till we see thy Heavenly face.

Yes our darling has gone, On earth we will see her no more. But I know I will meet her In Heaven where parting will be no more. —A COUSIN.

Has the following to say about the Electropoise and how it cures after effects of the Grippe.

Olive Brinley, Miles, Hardin Co., Louisville, January 30, 1893.

Gentle While attending the Memphis Fair some months ago, I was attacked with severe pains in my arm and legs, the effect of grippe of 1892.

I met your agent there, Mr. Parker, who is an old friend, and I told him that I use the Electropoise in his office, which I did with wonderful results.

In a short time the pains left me, and I concluded to rent it.

When my rental time had expired, I bought it, and would not part with it for any consideration.

It is a wonderful instrument, and it is wonderful as to how it does its work, yet it does it.

I think it is the duty of every man to make known to the afflicted anything that will be of any benefit to them, and the Electropoise certainly will. Very respectfully,

T. E. C. BRINLEY.

Mr. Brinley is one of the oldest and best known plow manufacturers in the country.

The diseases cured by the Electropoise are not confined to any particular class of ailments.

By its use oxygen is absorbed through the pores in the membrane, adds strength and vigor to the entire system, and will cure any disease where there is vitality to build on and a cure possible.

We invite all to call or write and get full particulars.

A Picnic On a Farm

In a sequestered, wooded spot, by a cooling stream—a very pleasant contemplation this for city folks.

They wonder why is the farmer does not more frequently go picnicking—why he does not get enjoyment out of life. They do not realize that the now-a-days farmer finds enjoyment in his work.

The McCormick Machine is one of the modern pleasures inviting acquisitions of the farmer.

It is such a handy machine and so useful in its performances that the old man and the harvest is done away with.
